SOUTH BARRE WHISKEY.

John Hunt Says It Was the Cause of His Undoing.

John Hunt, a young man of good appearance, was in city court Saturday afternoon to answer to a second offense of intoxication. Hunt, who says his home is in South Boston, was convicted of a previous offense in the local court March 29 and served his 10 days. He said, after being released, he went to South Barre to visit some friends and had been back in the city less than three hours when he was arrested and taken to jail again for intoxication.

lie said he was a chef and came up this way in search of a position in some of the summer houses. Hunt told a straightforward story which inclined the court to lendency in his case. Accordingly, he was given a sentence of 10 days in Jail. Called upon to disclose, Hunt said he obtained whiskey in South Barre before taking the train for Burlington.

Mrs. Emeline McNulty, who has left a bad record wherever she has lived in Vermont, was arraigned in court Saturday afternoon and found gullty of keeping a house of ill-fame in Drew's lane, off Batstreet. Mrs. McNulty was co on the testimony of Mrs. Kata Bigelow and Miss Lottle Daniele, inmates of the resort, the last named being a niece of the respondent. Both the Daniels girl Mrs. Bigelow had previously pleaded guilty to open and gross lewdness.
